

Eric Sellman Appointed President of Barnett Southern Corporation Bringing Extensive Leadership Experience to the Team

ATHENS, GA— Barnett Southern Corporation (BSC) is thrilled to announce the appointment of Eric Sellman as the new President of the company. Eric's wealth of experience and remarkable leadership in the heavy construction industry, combined with his commitment to fostering positive cultures and high-performing teams, make him an invaluable addition to the Barnett Southern family.

"We are confident that Eric's visionary leadership and dedication will drive the company's continued growth and success," stated Ames Barnett, CEO of Barnett Southern. "The entire team welcomes Eric to his new role and looks forward to the bright future he will help shape for our company and the communities we serve."

With a career in Heavy Civil construction spanning over 30 years in the highway, site development, water resources and renewable energy markets Eric has consistently demonstrated his capability to drive growth and excellence. He brings to Barnett Southern a proven track record of strategic thinking, innovation, and the ability to develop enduring partnerships. His mission is to elevate every aspect of the Barnett Southern experience for customers, communities, partners and employees, ensuring that the company continues to exceed expectations and set new industry standards.

"I am honored and excited to be joining this wonderful firm. I have known Ames for many years, and am impressed by the business he and the hard-working people of Barnett Southern Corporation have built over the last two decades," said Eric Sellman. "I believe for a business to be successful, there are three main elements that work together and reinforce each other: purpose, strategy, and culture. I will focus on helping to grow the business with these principles in mind so that our people have a place to grow their careers and to look forward to coming to work every day."
